

Convergence excess esotropia

What is a convergence excess esotropia?

A convergence excess esotropia is a type of squint. A squint describes when one or both eyes turn inwards or outwards, depending on the eye muscles involved.

A convergence excess squint is a specific type of intermittent inward turning

